

Latino

Technical Assistance Provider

University of California, Davis Center for Reducing Health Disparities (CRHD)

California Reducing Disparities Project (CRDP)
Phase 2

WELLNESS • RECOVERY • RESILIENCE

The California Reducing Disparities Project (CRDP) is a statewide prevention and early intervention effort to reduce mental health disparities in underserved communities that include African Americans; Asian and Pacific Islanders; Latinos; Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Queer/Questioning (LGBTQ); and Native American/Alaska Native. Phase 2 focuses on implementing community-defined practices and strategies to reduce mental health disparities. The California map below show the locations of the seven Latino Implementation Pilot Projects.

